Reflection

"I believe more and more that the greatest single help to a spiritual life is a deep and living human love of another....I have solemnly resolved to love more deeply and more truly and to be a sweeter man."

Rufus Jones, in a letter quoted in Essential Writings (Orbis Books)

Morningside Meeting of the Religious Society of Friends Minutes of the Meeting for Worship with a Concern for Business January 7, 2018

1. The Meeting began with worship at 12:30 p.m., and Pamela Wood read from Faith and Practice:

“Friends have been concerned to communicate with integrity, to make our words and action fit the truth of our lives. We endeavor to speak truth as we know it, honestly and forthrightly, speaking plainly from our own lives. Sometimes this practice has been difficult; sometimes the results surprise and delight us....

“Thoughtful listening is as important as speaking, and a necessary part of resolving our conflicts. If we listen attentively to the Spirit, in ourselves and others, words and action can become a way of knowing God, a form of prayer. To speak, write or act from the truth of our lives brings a spiritual force to bear on us in ways that may develop into concerns or leadings if we listen further.”

Faith and Practice of New York Yearly Meeting, 2015 edition, page 31

The reading was also followed by silent worship.

2. Mason Jenkins read the report for Ministry and Counsel. M&C met on Jan. 1st at the home of Pamela Wood. The next meeting will be at the home of Pamela Wood on January 29th at 7:15 p.m. All are welcome to the first part. Please RSVP. Friends accept the report. The written report is attached.
Friends accept the report.
3. Friends approve the releases of membership of Courtney Bowles and Kia Heath both of whom have been long absent and unable to be located.
4. The concern about children being present during Afterwords and joining part of Meeting for Worship were discussed. A range of ways of handling these were offered. Friends sent these options back to the Committee for Meeting with Children for a proposal at our next Meeting for Worship with a Concern for Business. Friends ask Ministry & Counsel to consider a discussion of appropriate sharing during afterwards and strategies for inappropriate sharing.

5. Daniel A. Seeger gave the Treasurer's Report. After some discussion, Friends accept the report. The written report is attached.
6. Stephen McDonnell read the draft of the State of the Meeting report. Friends were offered time for suggestions and reflections. Friends approved the report.
7. Naomi Paz Greenberg gave the Peace and Social Concerns report. Friends offered some suggestions, and Friends accept the report. The report is attached.
8. Naomi Paz Greenberg shared a request that we received from the Flushing Interfaith Council that all member organizations appoint a representative to cast a ballot for their Board of Directors, and Naomi offered to serve in this capacity. Friends approved Naomi Paz Greenberg to this position, to serve for one year.
9. Lee Rada gave the second reading of the Nominating Committee Report, the slate of yearly committees and positions. Friends accept the report, and approved all nominations. The report is attached.
10. Pamela Wood gave a Clerk's Report:
 - Greg Batista's request for a transfer of membership from Morningside to Brooklyn Meeting has been approved by Brooklyn Meeting.
 - "On the weekend of April 6-8, 2018, the NYQM is hosting NYYM's Spring Sessions. Although we have yet to finalize plans, the Sessions are likely to be held at Brooklyn Friend's School. The NYQM needs to form a Host Task Group (HTG) to organize Spring Sessions. The Host Task Group consists of a clerk, treasurer, hospitality coordinator, Children and Youth Programs Coordinator and a couple of people familiar with the venues. Fortunately for us, Helen Garay Toppins has agreed to be both our registrar (taking place through the NYYM Office) and Hospitality Coordinator, so this position on the Task Group is filled. Of primary importance is filling the position of Children and Youth Programs Coordinator as this program must be fully in place by early February in order to be published and promoted in InfoShare and Spark.

"Since this is a NYQM effort, we are looking for six or more members/attenders representing all of our monthly meetings to be on the HTG. As time is of the essence here, please let your meetings know and have people interested in being on the Host Task Group contact Nancy Britton (nancy@brittonfamily.org),

"In friendship,
Nancy Britton, clerk of NYQM"

- I am regularly receiving reports from the Hispanic Federation to which we gave money to help Puerto Rico. They have:
 - Delivered 4 million pounds of food and water to 75 of 78 municipalities in Puerto Rico thanks to your support.
 - Provided 600,000 people with water filtration systems, medical support, meals, emergency tarps, mosquito nets, solar lamps and other essential provisions.
 - Invested $7.5 million dollars in innovative projects that will build a stronger and more resilient Puerto Rico in the areas of housing, agriculture, workforce development, energy and communications, and the environment.

To see how your support is making a difference in Puerto Rico, please visit www.hispanicfederationunidos.org. We update this website regularly with our latest accomplishments on the island.

I will be reporting to Peace and Social Concerns about the issues that the Hispanic Federation feels are need action for a successful rebuilding of Puerto Rico.

Friends accept the report.

A Friend made an announcement.

Friends approved these minutes. The meeting ended with worship at 2:00 p.m.

Respectfully submitted,
Stephen McDonnell

Ministry and Counsel Report

For the January 7th, 2018 Business Meeting

1. M&C met on Monday January 1st at the home of Pam Wood.
2. The next meeting will be Monday January 29th at Pam Wood's at 7:15. The first half is open to anyone with concerns.
3. Our next welcome breakfast will be on January 28th hosted by Charlene Ray at 9:30 in the Riverside Cafe. All are welcome.
4. Also on January 28th after meeting Pam Wood will lead a worship sharing on the testimony of integrity.
5. Bible Study will be held on January 14th at 9:30.
6. The State of the Meeting was held on 12/17.
7. A concern was raised at the State of the Meeting about children being present during Afterwords. It is possible that some people feel inhibited from sharing sensitive information if children are present and that it may not be appropriate for small children to hear some of these messages. This is a concern not shared by many members of the meeting. M&C would like to ask business meeting if further discussion or action is needed regarding this issue.
8. M&C currently has 6 support committees.
9. The list of friends interested in Quaker Sixes and Spiritual Nurture Groups has been compiled, and M&C is in the process of arranging the groups. If you signed up you will likely be contacted in the next month. If you are interested and have not signed up please let a member of M&C know.
10. M&C recommends the release of membership of Courtney Bowles and Kia Heath both of whom have been long absent and unable to be located.

Treasurer's Report, Year End for Fiscal Year 2017

The attached spreadsheets give preliminary results for income and expenses in the fiscal year just ended. A few small adjustments still need to be made, but these will be small and immaterial. For practical purposes, although preliminary, these figures fairly and accurately present the Meeting's financial situation as of December 31, 2017.

The first spreadsheet shows income and expenses by categories for the twelve months. This presentation is analogous to those which have been offered on a monthly basis throughout the year. All bills due during the year have been paid; all scheduled Peace and Social Concerns disbursements have been made; and all donations arriving before January 5, 2018 have been included as FY 2017 contributions.

There is nothing extraordinary in the details of the report. Of crucial significance is the figure in the lower righthand corner: income exceeded expenditures by $839.24. This is a heartening result, given last year's shortfall of $1,665.00, and the fact that this year's expenditure budget exceeded last year's by $5,529.00. So, the downward spiral the Treasurer feared as he took up his duties last February has not materialized.

But if we look closely at the $839.24 excess, we see that $500.00 of it consists of a new restricted grant for the reintegration of formerly incarcerated persons into society, so only $339.24 is an actual surplus in the originally budgeted activity. Given that total expenditures amounted to $39,093 the income and expenditures were balanced only within a hair's breadth.

The second spreadsheet presents the same data in a format which allows a comparison both to the original budget for 2017 and to the actual results of the previous fiscal year, 2016. This second sheet also shows how the 2017 activity affected the Meeting's balances and net worth.

In sum, we have about a year's expenditures in reserves, the great preponderance of these reserves being unrestricted funds.

The second spreadsheet has a blank fourth column for the budget in 2018. The Finance Committee will be meeting in January and will be prepared to recommend a budget for approval at the February business meeting. We will be operating for a month without an approved budget, but this seems preferable to trying to devise a budget in December, since a surge both in income and in Peace and Social Concerns expenditures at the end of the year would make planning on the basis of actual experience impossible in December.

Many members make contributions by instructing their banks to send a specified amount each month. The Treasurer encourages this practice, which makes personal and Meeting financial planning easier. But whether contributions are made monthly or spasmodically, as a community we should take satisfaction that members continue to be steadfastly generous in their financial support of the Meeting, the hairbreadth balancing of income and expenditures being a result of ambitious goals rather than weak commitment.

Respectfully submitted, Daniel A. Seeger, Treasurer

Report from Peace and Social Concerns Committee

January 7, 2018

In preparing for the Amnesty International Write for Rights events, the Flushing Amnesty Group, an outgrowth of the Flushing Interfaith Council (of which Morningside Meeting is a member) Social Justice Committee, prepared letters, somewhat edited from the sample letters prepared by Amnesty, mailing labels, stamps, envelopes and pens.

Furthermore, we tried to keep the letters and the mailing labels in the same order, so that it would be relatively easy to do one letter at a time without getting things confused.

There was nevertheless some confusion, so there was clerical work both before and after.

We had two events, one here at Morningside Meeting and another at the Free Synagogue of Flushing, a first time for them.

We had to summarize the letters generated for a report to Amnesty, and Caroline Lane of Flushing Meeting took charge of the letters signed at the Synagogue, while I reported on the letters signed here:

The Free Synagogue of Flushing event generated 205 letters.

The Morningside Quaker Meeting event generated 106 with another 13 'after-letters' signed two weeks later, so all told 119 for Morningside.

This is far more than we've ever generated before, so the prep work and the after-work seem to be something we should continue.

We also learned that it was a good idea to put out a donations basket, since each of the letters represents $1.15 in postage, and we recovered somewhere in the neighborhood of $60 at the Flushing event.

Respectfully submitted,
Naomi Paz-Greenberg

Morningside Monthly Meeting 2017 State of the Meeting Report

On December 17, 2017, Morningside Monthly Meeting gathered to discern the spiritual state of the meeting and to meditate on the past year.

One participant spoke of Meeting as a large rough rock that provides handholds to the larger meeting without requiring the inclusion in all parts. By not smoothing over the roughness, we allow individuals to give what they can give, even if they can't come to Meeting for Worship. Meeting is not "just Sunday," for there are so many ways to be part of Meeting, including "Bible study and its good wanderings," occasions of sharing, such as one member's art on the Psalms; the small group ARCH Meetings that “help build community,” support and clearness committees, and spiritual nurture groups. There are so many ways to be part of Meeting and we need to let people who visit know of the many opportunities to get to know each other.

The fall and spring retreats were cited as important events by several people, and were appreciated for their communal nature where the “Spirit was present throughout the day.” That communal nature was evident throughout the year, as individuals contributed their time and energy to Meeting. One person recognized the support of Meeting in preparation for the retreats; another spoke of how, unbidden, Friends took it upon themselves to do tasks large and small. “It is in the sharing of tasks that we witness the miracle of the loaves and fishes.”

The many ways that keep people attached to Meeting are possible because of the spiritual core of Meeting for Worship and Meeting for Worship with a Concern for Business. In order to maintain the quality of worship and increase the number of people who remain for Business Meeting, Morningside has changed the flow of meetings, minimizing announcements and refreshment time. We begin and finish earlier, and the timing has increased participation. We recognize that we are all ministers and that anyone is able to call for a moment of silence. During a contentious meeting, one member reminded us that “We have all fallen short of the glory of God” (Romans 3:23).

Concerns were expressed in how to maintain Afterwords as a solemn time. Although Meeting spoke fondly of watching and recording the growth of new children in the community and the joy in seeing little children entering at the end of Worship, concern was expressed that their presence might make the space feel less safe for attenders who need to share difficult things.

Inclusion into a safe space is an important concern of Meeting, which continues to express pride and joy in participating in Support and Clearness committees for Morningsiders in distress. One person questioned whether we communicate our care as individuals as a community, and queried, “Are we building the kinds of relationships that enable people to know when people need help and feel that they can ask for it?” One person responded that we need to learn to ask for help when we need it. Another added that as we are all ministers and all partake in different parts of Meeting, we should respond to the needs of the participants of our specific groups and communicate that to the larger meeting.

The conversation on inclusion extended to new people attending Meeting. “How can we better welcome people who drop in?” Suggestions included asking new people to help out with the immediate tasks of preparing for Meeting and refreshments, restoring the Welcoming Sign at the front desk, and inviting rather than requiring guests to introduce themselves after Meeting.

Inclusion requires an awareness of the language that we use, even if it has a long Quaker pedigree. One person expressed concern with the usage of “darkness” and “light” and its racial overtones. This is especially apt, for this year our retreat was on Deep Listening about Racism. One Friend recommended that rather than the light vs. dark image, we consider an openness and expansion, vs. fear and contraction image. When the meeting is open to Spirit, it is capable of change, but when it contracts in fear, it can only seek to hold on to what it has always had. Further changes in the structure of Business and the ability to change traditions, such as the yearly “cookie swap,” are indications that the Meeting has been open to the Spirit this year. In the future we must continue to evaluate the various activities of the Meeting to see how they are working.

We continue to experience the necessary change of transitioning from older Friends. Although we have had losses, deaths, people moving away, we haven’t fallen apart. Our loss of longtime member Vince Buscemi was great, but his memorial meeting was a wonderful moment of humor and treasuring. We grieve but we also look forward, questioning how we can encourage children to come to Meeting when they are older. We remain an integral part of Quarterly Meeting and were pleased to receive recognition for our hospitality at NYQM. Although Peace & Social Concerns has not met as frequently as in previous years, the letter campaign “Write for Rights” for Amnesty International allowed Morningside to learn about problems in the world and the need for greater hospitality in the future. We use M&C to work on conflicts, although there are not really very many. We recognize the discipline of not gossiping, especially for revenge, as M&C helps us all grow in the spirit.

One Friend seemed to sum up future concerns, asking, “How do we maintain the content in the communication channels we have?” How do we communicate with members and attenders in crisis; how do we communicate with others outside of Meeting; what is the nature of the language we use and how is it heard by others? This is and will always remain a challenge, for we are one family even when we don’t always like every family member. This year, in the current social political economic environment, we prayerfully ask “How does Morningside Monthly Meeting keep the channels of Love and Truth alive?”

In Friendship,

AFSC Exhibit 100 Years of Action Comes to New York

by Joyce Aljouny, General Secretary

Created in honor of AFSC's centennial, the interactive Waging Peace exhibit demonstrates how nonviolent social change can promote justice, overcome oppression, and build communities with the resilience to surmount and prevent violence. Told through the powerful stories of courageous people like you, the exhibit highlights AFSC's past century of success in confronting injustice and waging peace.

Here are the details of the exhibit's run in New York:

Waging Peace: 100 Years of Action
January 27 through March 17
Godwin-Ternbach Museum at Queens College
65-30 Kissena Blvd.
405 Klapper Hall
Flushing, NY 11367

Now as we face serious challenges to civil rights, peace, and justice, we have much to learn from movements of the past that overcame similar threats. Waging Peace features examples of social change work from AFSC's 100-year history—from World War I to the Movement for Black Lives—and offers valuable lessons to us today.

Whether you are interested in peace building, ending discrimination, immigrants' rights, prison issues, or economic justice, we hope the exhibit will inspire you, connect you with other peace builders, and leave you energized to take part in meaningful social change in the year to come and beyond.

Join FCNL's New York City Advocacy and Prevent Nuclear War

In 2018, FCNL's Advocacy Teams are lobbying to stop nuclear war. Today's confrontation with North Korea represents the most urgent risk of nuclear war in a generation. We all know that war is not the answer in North Korea. It would be catastrophic — for the United States, its allies, and the people of the region. Only diplomacy and peacebuilding offer a path for something better.

We do not stand helpless in the face of this danger. With the executive branch escalating tensions daily, Congress holds the constitutional responsibility to determine whether the country chooses war. Yet far too many in Congress — both Republicans and Democrats — have been silent in the face of dangerous, rhetoric on both sides that is escalating toward conflict. Others in D.C. — and in North Korea — will read this silence as consent to war. In 2018, Advocacy Teams will spur congressional action on both sides of the aisle to stand up against nuclear war.

More than 80 Advocacy Teams nationwide with 1400+ members will be lobbying their representatives to prevent war with North Korea by:

- convincing Congressional Democrats to publicly stand as a voting bloc against war with North Korea
- convincing individual Congressional Republicans to voice opposition to war

For more information about Advocacy Teams, see <https://www.fcnl.org/updates/advocacy-teams-37>. For more information about the New York City Advocacy Team, talk to Kathy Stackhouse.

In the meantime, please write to Sen. Gillibrand to thank her for co-sponsoring Sen. Chris Murphy's S. 2047, the Preventing Preemptive War with North Korea Act of 2017 (<https://www.congress.gov/bill/115th-congress/senate-bill/2047/text>) and write to Sen. Schumer to ask him to be a co-sponsor.
